Discrimination against Women: After Marriage

- Under the existing cultural and social ethos of India a married girl / woman is no longer considered to be part of the family of her birth, instead she has become part of the family of the groom.
- There is no cultural or religious tradition behind one of the most ghastly incidents of female oppression, but the prevalence of the dowry tradition has supposedly lead to "Bride Burning" (or other form of murdering) of the newly-wed wife by the husband and his family.

Indian law demands a formal criminal investigation when a newly married woman dies within the home within 7 years of marriage.

According to Indian National Crime Record Bureau, there were 8,239 dowry death cases, 1,285 cases of attempted dowry deaths, and another 90 cases with pending investigations.

Imbalance

- On the other hand, there are a couple of reasons why women might be regarded more of a liability for a family.
- Not considered capable of earning money.
- Seen as economically and emotionally dependent on men.
- While they help with domestic duties during childhood and adolescence, they go to live with their husband's family after marriage, which means less help in the household of their originating family, and most importantly loss of money due to the dowry tradition.
- This might explain why the birth of a daughter may not always be perceived as equally blissful as the birth of a son, and why "May you be blessed with a hundred sons" is a common Hindu wedding blessing.

Impact of lockdown on Environment

Report On Webinar “Impact Of Lockdown On Environment During The Pandemic Covid-19 Period”

One day webinar on “Impact of lockdown on Environment during the pandemic covid-19 period” organized by Randhirsingh Bhadoriya Mahavidyalaya Umred on dated 29th September 2020. The speaker of this webinar was Miss Komal Khadgi, Junior College Teacher, Ashok Jr. College, Umred. The president of this seminar was Principal Prof. Miss J. M. Tiwari.

Miss Komal Khadgi started her webinar by talking about pollution and how the government and many other organizations have come up with a number of measures to reduce pollution as well as increase the capacity of the ozone layer. But they did not have the success they wanted. But the lockdown reduced road traffic, shut down industries and power stations, automatically curbed pollution and increased the capacity of the ozone layer. During this pandemic period road traffic decreased and wild animals also started appearing on the roads.

Lastly the webinar was concluded with vote of thanks proposed by Prof. S, Junghare Madam.
